

Case study

---

Utilities

Issue:

As utility industries become deregulated, providers will have the opportunity to expand their customer base.

Action:

A nationally representative sample of Consumer Mail Panel members was selected to participate in a study designed to identify potential areas of service expansion.

Cluster analysis was performed to identify key market segments and various customer and geographic segments were identified that could potentially prove attractive in the advent of deregulation.